

Today we are going to present you Russ Foxx, a committed transhumanist.

Transhumanism is a philosophical movement that advocates for the transformation of the human condition by developing and making widely available sophisticated technologies able to greatly modify or enhance human intellect and physiology.

Indeed, the body modifications of Russ Foxx include devices and transponders, surgically implanted under his skin, that allow him to share electronic data, unlock things like doors or cupboards, and even detect magnetic fields. Also, his body comprises common modifications such as many tattoos and piercings.

Silicone Implants

We can see that a part of his face and skull is tattooed and looks like a kind of robotic designs.

For instance, thanks to a small transponder implanted in his left hand, Russ Foxx is able to unlock the front door of his house, without a key.

For him, his body must evolve with technology and be regularly updated as any software.

In an interview he said "I like the idea of upgrading myself, enhancing myself in different ways so that I can interact with the world around me in more ways and I can increase my sensory capabilities" and describes himself as a transhumanist that believe in the fact that humans could push back physical limitations and extend life. Finally, Russ Foxx thinks that the transhumanist movement isn't large for now, but he is confident about the future.
